A Code Breakers Prequel

Note: This prequel story can be read at any point in the Code Breakers series.

Rogue hackers Petal and Gabriel are low on food and water. Their reputation precedes them and they are no longer able to hustle the crime community for supplies. With survival becoming harder, they're left with no other choice but to accept a risky job from a dangerous individual.

The two will have to negotiate with the Tinker—a woman whose reputation for psychotic behaviour is known across the nuclear-blasted Abandoned Lands; infiltrate a town overrun with killers; and recover a cache of exceptionally rare information.

They will have to put their very lives on the line in order to succeed, and with the odds considerably stacked against them, they'll need more than luck on their side.

This is a 25,000 word cyberpunk/adventure novella-length story, which equates to about 2-3hrs reading time.
