THE FEATHERHOOD: "What Happened to the Most Valuable Bird in the World?" Jim Jenner
THE NATIONAL TV NEWS PROGRAM HEADLINED: "What Happened to the Most Valuable Bird in the World?" A billionaire's bird is missing and no one's claimed the huge reward. The greatest racing pigeon in history, worth over half a million dollars, vanished into thin air. If he's alive out there, his captors aren't talking. From the hidden but high-stakes world of pigeon racing comes the inside story of what really happened to "The Black Deuce", Belgium's legendary winner of Europe's greatest race, Barcelona. In the 1990's, flying faster than 47,000 pedigreed homing pigeons, he won this 600+ mile event twice, a feat never before equaled. Adding tenfold to his value, his proven ability to sire champions. Then, tragedy. Imported to California, he was frightened from his new home. More than 5,000 miles from Belgium, returning there was suicide. But he tried, only to be ripped from the sky by a pair of deadly falcons. Lost, alone and only minutes from death, fate brought a young boy in Tacoma, Washington into his life. Jim Jenner's fascinating and heartwarming story reveals how "The Black Deuce", a bird worth twenty times his weight in gold, fell into the lives of inner-city children with no idea of his value. But, more than money, his true worth lay in the transformative effect pigeons often have on their human keepers. This ancient, and life-changing transformation forms a bond they call "The Featherhood". Writer/Director Jim Jenner has created more than a dozen award-winning films on pigeons and pigeon racing. Now he combines his vast knowledge of pigeons and the racing sport in a thrilling story of inner-city kids who stumble on a lost bird of enormous value. Filled with fascinating pigeon information and a cast of lovable and terrifying characters, this novel is a wonderful introduction to the pigeon hobby for young adults and older readers.
